

GRANT AT THE HUB.

The Lieutenant General's Visit to Massachusetts.

Oration Along the Route from Albany to Boston.

THANKS, BUT MAKES NO SPEECHES.

Tremendous Reception in the Yankee Athens.

THE HUB IN A HUBBUB.

TWO SERENADES IN HONOR OF THE HERO.

Attends Service at the Old South Church.

Visit to the Charlestown Navy Yard and Bunker Hill.

SURVEY OF THE FIELD.

Enthusiastic Reception at Faneuil Hall.

Our Boston Correspondence.

Boston, July 30, 1865.

The greatest military chief of the age, both by rank and merit, is now the guest of the city of Boston. He arrived here in a special train over the Western and Boston and Worcester railroads on Saturday evening, and is now safely ensconced within the palatial walls of the Revere House in Bowdoin square. His coming was a surprise to Bostonians generally, the fact not having been definitely announced until late Saturday afternoon; but his visit was anticipated by the State Executive Department, which immediately made preparations to lionize him. The attention bestowed upon him since his arrival has been constant, and the people have improved every opportunity to manifest the high regard which they entertain for the distinguished visitor. Before reaching Boston, General Grant had been the subject of many discussions along the route in honor of his presence, and his visit was everywhere hearty and enthusiastic in character.

LEAVING ALBANY.

The Lieutenant General and his party arrived at Albany, from Saratoga, about ten o'clock on Saturday morning. His companions are Mr. Grant, his two sons, Frederick and Ulysses, his daughters, Ellen and Jessie, two servants and his staff, which consists of Colonel Babcock, Colonel Porter, Colonel Parker and Colonel Bedes. Immediately upon his arrival at Albany the General was waited upon by Adjutant General Schuler, of Massachusetts, who had been dispatched by Governor Andrew immediately upon his learning of his intention to visit Boston. General Schuler was provided with the following letter of introduction and invitation from the Governor:

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, BOSTON, July 28, 1865.

To Lieut. Gen. U. S. GRANT, U. S. A., &c.: Sir, I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 27th inst., in relation to your proposed visit to Boston. It is my duty to inform you that the Governor has been pleased to accept of your visit, and to direct that you be received with the honors due to your rank and position. I am, Sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant, JOHN A. ANDREW.

The General accepted of the invitation, and the party of one hundred and twenty persons, including the General, his family, and his staff, left Albany for Boston on Sunday morning, July 29th, at ten o'clock. The train was composed of the Western Railroad, a most magnificent car was provided. The seats of one of the best cars on the road had been removed, and their place supplied with costly furniture and every other appliance of elegance and comfort. The interior of the car, as well as the outside, was beautifully draped with American flags, which, combined with the rich arm chairs and sofas, formed quite a palatial apartment. At either end of the car was a stuffed eagle, with outspread wings, and in the center was a large oil painting of the great General. The engine was also beautifully decorated with bunting and floral wreaths, and had upon its forward part two large silk flags, bearing the names of Lincoln and Grant. As the train moved away from the depot, the shouts of the people, mingled with the firing of salutes and the waving of the hands, were almost deafening. After passing rapidly over a space of twenty-five miles, without stopping at a single station, the train and its distinguished guest arrived at

CHARLESTOWN COAST.

Here there was a large concourse of spectators, anxious to get a sight of the General. They cheered heartily, and seemed anxious for him to make a speech. He "couldn't see it," however. All he could do was to bow his acknowledgments to the people, and then to move on in a graceful and dignified manner. As the train moved away the crowd called for three cheers, which were multiplied to a dozen, and rang in the ears of all. The train was met at the Charlestown Navy Yard by the General's staff, and the party proceeded to the Revere House, where they were met by the Governor and his family. The General and his family were met by the Governor and his family, and the party proceeded to the Revere House, where they were met by the Governor and his family.

THE PRESS DISPATCHES.

To-day Lieutenant General Grant has been the guest of the city of Boston. After breakfasting with his family at the Revere House, he was met by Mayor Lincoln and Aldermen Clapp and Gardiner, and soon after nine o'clock carriages were taken for the Charlestown Navy Yard.

Mrs. Grant, Miss Jessie Grant, and Masters Frederick and Ulysses Grant, accompanied the General, who, as usual, was loudly cheered by an enthusiastic crowd.

Leaving the hotel at a quarter before ten o'clock, the party arrived at the Navy Yard, where they were received by Rear Admiral Stringham, commandant of the yard, and his officers. The Marine Guard, under command of Lieutenant Pope, were drawn up in line and presented arms as the General passed, and the Navy Yard band played "Hail to the Chief."

The workmen in the yard, thirty-five hundred in number, were also drawn up in line on either side of the principal avenues leading through the yard, and, as the General passed, bending their heads and waving their hats in homage to the hero.

A salaried band of music, consisting of the various pieces of the Marine Guard, accompanied the General, and the party returned to the Revere House, where they were met by the Governor and his family.

As it was announced in the morning papers that General Grant would pay a visit to Charlestown, large crowds were seen at the Navy Yard, Bunker Hill and other points, and he was frequently cheered.

GENERAL GRANT'S RECEPTION AT FANEUIL HALL. The public reception of Lieutenant General Grant at Faneuil Hall, on Sunday afternoon, July 30th, was one of the most brilliant and successful ever witnessed in this city.

The hall was filled to its utmost capacity, and the General was met by a large and enthusiastic crowd of people, who greeted him with shouts of "Hail to the Chief."

The General and his family were met by the Governor and his family, and the party proceeded to the Revere House, where they were met by the Governor and his family.

The General and his family were met by the Governor and his family, and the party proceeded to the Revere House, where they were met by the Governor and his family.

The General and his family were met by the Governor and his family, and the party proceeded to the Revere House, where they were met by the Governor and his family.

The General and his family were met by the Governor and his family, and the party proceeded to the Revere House, where they were met by the Governor and his family.

The General and his family were met by the Governor and his family, and the party proceeded to the Revere House, where they were met by the Governor and his family.

The General and his family were met by the Governor and his family, and the party proceeded to the Revere House, where they were met by the Governor and his family.

The General and his family were met by the Governor and his family, and the party proceeded to the Revere House, where they were met by the Governor and his family.

The General and his family were met by the Governor and his family, and the party proceeded to the Revere House, where they were met by the Governor and his family.

The General and his family were met by the Governor and his family, and the party proceeded to the Revere House, where they were met by the Governor and his family.

The General and his family were met by the Governor and his family, and the party proceeded to the Revere House, where they were met by the Governor and his family.

The General and his family were met by the Governor and his family, and the party proceeded to the Revere House, where they were met by the Governor and his family.

EUROPE.

Arrival of the Hibernian off Father Point.

ONE DAY LATER NEWS.

THE ATLANTIC CABLE.

THE ENGLISH PARLIAMENT ELECTIONS.

THE LIBERALS GAIN TWENTY.

Gladstone Returned from South Lancashire.

THE CHOLERA IN ENGLAND.

&c., &c., &c.

FATHER POINT, July 31, 1865.

The steamship Hibernian, which left Liverpool at half-past two on the afternoon of the 29th and Londonderry on the 31st inst., passed Father Point at five o'clock this evening.

Constantine Kent, who pleaded guilty of murder, has been sentenced to death.

The Prince and Princess of Wales were at Plymouth, visiting the annual exhibition of the Royal Agricultural Society. They also visited the principal vessels of the English and French squadrons in Plymouth sound.

The Persian Gulf telegraph cable is repaired, and telegraphic communication is re-established.

The cholera has broken out in Birmingham. Large numbers of paupers are said to have been attacked.

The steamship Hibernian, from Quebec, reached Liverpool on the morning of the 30th.

The steamship Cuba, from New York, arrived at Queenstown on the 31st.

The United States steamer Keokuk, from Lisbon, arrived at Brest on the 19th, and fired a salute of twenty-one guns, which the fort returned.

The Atlantic Cable.

Quebec, July 30, 1865.

The Great Eastern is in Battery bay, awaiting the laying of the shore end of the cable, which, it is expected, will be accomplished by the 21st or 22d inst.

The British Election.

The election returns to the evening of the 19th show five hundred and seventy-two members returned, of whom three hundred and thirty-four are Liberals and two hundred and thirty-eight Conservatives. The Liberal gain is twenty.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

EUROPE.

Arrival of the Hibernian off Father Point.

ONE DAY LATER NEWS.

THE ATLANTIC CABLE.

THE ENGLISH PARLIAMENT ELECTIONS.

THE LIBERALS GAIN TWENTY.

Gladstone Returned from South Lancashire.

THE CHOLERA IN ENGLAND.

&c., &c., &c.

FATHER POINT, July 31, 1865.

The steamship Hibernian, which left Liverpool at half-past two on the afternoon of the 29th and Londonderry on the 31st inst., passed Father Point at five o'clock this evening.

Constantine Kent, who pleaded guilty of murder, has been sentenced to death.

The Prince and Princess of Wales were at Plymouth, visiting the annual exhibition of the Royal Agricultural Society. They also visited the principal vessels of the English and French squadrons in Plymouth sound.

The Persian Gulf telegraph cable is repaired, and telegraphic communication is re-established.

The cholera has broken out in Birmingham. Large numbers of paupers are said to have been attacked.

The steamship Hibernian, from Quebec, reached Liverpool on the morning of the 30th.

The steamship Cuba, from New York, arrived at Queenstown on the 31st.

The United States steamer Keokuk, from Lisbon, arrived at Brest on the 19th, and fired a salute of twenty-one guns, which the fort returned.

The Atlantic Cable.

Quebec, July 30, 1865.

The Great Eastern is in Battery bay, awaiting the laying of the shore end of the cable, which, it is expected, will be accomplished by the 21st or 22d inst.

The British Election.

The election returns to the evening of the 19th show five hundred and seventy-two members returned, of whom three hundred and thirty-four are Liberals and two hundred and thirty-eight Conservatives. The Liberal gain is twenty.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party.

Mr. Gladstone has been making a speech in which he expressed the conviction that the result of the elections would not diminish confidence in the Conservative party